What does AFGJ advocate in Honduras?
Honduras Solidarity Protest

Honduras is a man-made disaster crafted in the bowels of the State Department in Washington, DC. The 2009 coup will forever be a blot on President Obama’s legacy.

Immediately after the coup, the Alliance for Global Justice joined with other groups to create the Honduras Solidarity Network. We’ve served on its steering committee, raised money for it, and administer the donation that has enabled the HSN to have a staff person in Honduras for the past three years.

Your tax-exempt donation will help us continue to work in solidarity with Hondurans who labor for justice and democracy in one of the most dangerous countries on earth.

Alliance for Global Justice has also taken numerous delegations there both to enable US and Canadian activists to witness for themselves the dangerous conditions under which Honduran activists and human rights protectors work and to accompany communities under threat of violence.

Feb. 17-26, AfGJ will be leading a delegation, along with co-sponsor Code Pink, to Honduras and Nicaragua to compare the two countries in the areas of rural development, citizen security, and women’s empowerment. Send an email to Delegations@AFGJ.org if you are interested in more information and an application.

Past AfGJ delegations to Honduras have stopped evictions, accompanied demonstrators on marches commemorating the June 28 anniversary of the coup, visited communities under threat of violence, and demanded justice for slain indigenous environmental activist Berta Caceres. These delegations are important!
Your support also enables us to work to educate and mobilize people in the US to change our country’s policies of support for a murderous, illegitimate government whose police and military murder activists and peasant cooperative members with impunity. We have participated in pressuring members of Congress to sign on to letters that have exceeded 100 Congress members calling for an end to US funding and training of Honduras’ military and police. We have also moved quickly to generate calls to the government and even local police departments when human rights protectors or peasant leaders have been arrested and held in life-threatening isolation. The actions of AfGJ and the 30+ other groups in the Honduras Solidarity Network have unquestionably saved lives.

We don’t know for certain what the new Trump administration’s policies will be toward Honduras, but they are not likely to be any better than the Obama administration’s policies which have cost the lives of hundreds of peasants, journalists, LGBTQ activists, unionists, and human rights defenders.

Please make a tax-deductible contribution today so that AfGJ can continue to shine a bright light of international attention on the Honduras government and its murderous allies.
